BOMBSHELL NEARS END OF LONG FLIGHT

Wallace Draws More Ire

BRITISH TALKS CRITICIZED BY MANY GROUPS

White House Says Former Vice President 'Speaking For Himself'

WASHINGTON, April 15—The White House declared today that in his overseas attacks on U. S. foreign policy, Henry A. Wallace "has been speaking for himself" as far as this government is concerned.

Meanwhile, a strongly-supported move developed in the senate to officially "condemn" the former Vice-president and cabinet officer for his onslaught against President Truman's Greco-Turkish aid program.

A spokesman said the White House has taken no official notice of Wallace's speeches in England, denounced by Sen. Vandenberg (R) Mich., foreign relations chairman, as "shocking."

The spokesman also asserted that President Truman has received no suggestion from members of congress that he make a public answer to Wallace.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross was asked whether the government felt called upon to notify Britain that Wallace was speaking as a private citizen. He replied:

"No, it seems perfectly obvious that Wallace is speaking as an individual."

LATER in the morning Louis E. Starr, commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, asked the President to revoke Wallace's passport "in order to relieve the governments of France and Great Britain of the embarrassment of Mr. Wallace's presence and inflammatory statements."

Starr said he received the impression from the President during his White House conference (Continued on Page Two)

TRUMAN WANTS NEW CONTROLS OF MUNITIONS

WASHINGTON, April 15—President Truman asked congress today for legislation superseding the old, out-moded neutrality act to provide federal control on the export of munitions and war materials to fit the government's present-day foreign policy.

The chief executive, in a special message to congress, asserted that the neutrality acts of 1935, 1937, and 1939 "were founded on the principle of impartiality toward all who would secure munitions from us regardless of their motives."

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Klerman

Phil Murray finds we are heading for fascism, Henry Wallace finds we are heading for war—millions seem to be just heading for the ball park.

For the next few months, Phil and Henry will have to work hard to take the headlines from Jackie Robinson.

Britain was grateful for the fresh eggs Henry carried with him but he seems to be overdoing it.

Henry's speeches lead to a new definition—a progressive American is one who goes abroad to pan his president, his government and his country.

But it's amazing how many economic statesmen have risen from the ashes of a depression to one of them knew how to end.

In prosperous times they know exactly what should be done with the money. When there isn't any money they know exactly how to keep their lips buttoned.

Conciliators Hopeful Telephone Unions Will Accept Settlement Plan

WASHINGTON, April 15—U. S. Conciliation Director Edgar L. Warren said today he is "hopeful" that the government's new peace plan in the nine-day-old telephone strike will be accepted and enable 340,000 idle phone workers to return to their jobs.

Warren and two aids appeared at a meeting of the 49-member policy committee of the National Federation of Telephone Workers to clarify some of the points in the government's compromise settlement proposal.

Both union and management officials were attempting to draft their answers to the compromise plan by 5 o'clock this afternoon—a deadline fixed by Secretary of Labor Schweilenbach in submitting the proposal to the parties.

If accepted, the nationwide walk-out of telephone workers could end at 5 p. m. Thursday.

Warren was asked whether the government planned to institute seizure of the struck telephone lines if the company and union reject Schweilenbach's compromise plan or fail to act by the 5 p. m. deadline today.

The conciliator replied that no plans have been made along that line.

NFTW spokesmen indicated that the union would be able to meet today's 5 p. m. deadline and that its answer would be transmitted directly to Schweilenbach before any public announcement was made.

Officials of the AT and T and its subsidiary Bell companies were in conference in New York

DEMOCRATS MAY AID LABOR BILL

Enough Votes To Override Veto Seen As House Starts Debate

WASHINGTON, April 15—An influential southern congressman predicted that a majority of house Democrats would support the new Republican labor bill as debate opened today on the far-reaching measure.

Rep. Cox (D) Ga., forecast 100 Democratic votes for the bill from the 188 minority members. With Republican leaders predicting that "less than 20" GOP members would vote against it, this would be more than sufficient to provide the two-thirds vote needed in the event of a veto by President Truman.

Speaker Martin predicted that the bill will be passed Thursday or Friday with enough votes to override any subsequent veto.

At the same time, the senate labor committee rushed action on its labor bill by strengthening the less drastic measure. The committee approved provisions authorizing the government to obtain court injunctions to halt "national paralysis" strikes and setting up a separate mediation agency.

U. S. READY TO SETTLE RUSSIAN BILL CHEAPLY

WASHINGTON, April 15—The United States was reported today ready to write off Russia's eleven billion dollar lend-lease account at approximately 500 million dollars.

This figure was arrived at on the basis of previous settlements, particularly that with Great Britain where a thirty-billion dollar account was written off at about 650 million dollars. This settlement took into account, however, heavy reverse lend-lease contribution by London to the American war effort.

The state department announced that Russia has decided to begin discussion of a lend-lease settlement. Little information was available, however, on the scope of the discussions.

GEN. MARSHALL REJECTS SOVIET PACT CHANGES

Secretary Reported Ready To Say Russia Wants U. S. Out Of Europe

MOSCOW, April 15—Secretary of State Marshall today rejected Soviet proposals to modify his proposed 40-year four-power pact against German aggression.

This concrete development at the big four council meeting occurred at a moment when Marshall was understood reporting to Washington that Soviet Russia apparently wants to keep the United States out of Europe.

Sources close the secretary said that is the interpretation Marshall has placed upon Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov's virtual rejection of America's offer to join Britain, France and Russia in a military alliance to keep Germany disarmed for 40 years.

That also is the conclusion contained in a report being sent to President Truman on yesterday's momentous meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers council, these sources said.

Molotov's attitude at that session was viewed by American delegation circles as far-reaching and historic importance.

Ranking members of the U. S. group expressed conviction that the Soviet foreign minister wanted to reject Marshall's offer for a long-term military alliance on Germany, but did not want to say so outright.

For this reason, they said, Molotov resorted to the diplomatic maneuver of figuratively tying a sack of rocks to the proposed pact and tossing it overboard.

The "rocks" were in the form of a series of amendments which would inject into the pact almost every highly-controversial political and economic issue on which the foreign ministers have disagreed at this conference.

COMMITTEES OF OHIO ASSEMBLY CONTINUE WORK

COLUMBUS, O., April 15—Ohio's legislators—those who didn't take the day off to attend baseball openers at Cincinnati and Cleveland—turned their attention to their unspectacular but highly important committee assignments today.

If anyone raised the question of a quorum today—which nobody was expected to do—the absentees might outnumber the solons in their seats. Even last night the baseball fever had struck to the extent that attendance was barely sufficient to pass uncontroversial bills.

One senate roll-call produced only 21 votes, with 19 needed for passage. A house bill carried only 97 votes of the 139 elected members.

Those remaining at their jobs, however, were busy with behind-the-scenes work. The house education committee continues hearings tonight and tomorrow on the 90-million-dollar-a-year Daniels-Carmer school bill, and supporters of the measure were expected to have a hard row despite previous senate approval.

Committee Chairman Dan S. Yoder (R-Wayne) flatly predicts that the bill will be cut to 80 millions to fit the governor's budget.

COMPANY I WILL MEET TONIGHT; 8 MEN NEEDED

Members of Company I, Circleville unit of the Ohio National Guards will meet at 8 p. m. Tuesday in the armory, East Franklin street.

Captain Jack Clifton said eight men are needed to meet the company quota and invited all interested to be present at tonight's meeting. Tonight is the last date to enlist to be eligible for this Summer's trip to Camp Perry.

THIS IS THE BOMBHELL, a converted twin-engine Douglas AT-26, in which Milton Reynolds, wealthy Chicago manufacturer, and two aides are attempting to set a new round-the-world air speed record.

COLUMBUS GIRL SAID KIDNAPED

Police Hunt Woman, 24, Men Who Abducted Her From In Front Of Home

COLUMBUS, O., April 15—Police searched today for a 24-year-old girl who allegedly abducted late yesterday by a former acquaintance from California and an unidentified male companion.

Raided W. Vargas, who reported the kidnaping to police, first told them that the girl, identified as Kathryn Smith, was his wife and that they had been married in California a month ago.

The woman, according to Vargas, was struck in the face and forced into an automobile containing two men and a woman next to the apartment where the couple had been living for three weeks.

Columbus detectives reported that Vargas told them the woman had left Fresno, Cal., to return to Columbus and that he had followed her. He declared that they had been planning to get married.

Police broadcasts asked that Crosby Hampoyan, 31, Fresno, Cal., and an unidentified second man be picked up for questioning in connection with the woman's disappearance.

Vargas reported that the woman was standing on the porch talking to a man when he returned home from his first day's work. He said that he continued into their apartment and (Continued on Page Two)

HOUSE LEADER SAYS TRUMAN 'OBSTRUCTS GOP'

WASHINGTON, April 15—A house GOP leader charged today that "the administration has utilized every possible method to obstruct the Republican congress in carrying out its promises to our citizens."

The accusation was leveled at President Truman by Rep. Allen (R) Ill., chairman of the house rules committee.

Allen asserted in a speech prepared for delivery in the house that "almost every report or press release issued by a government department 'snipes' directly or indirectly at this congress."

He added: "Through all of the devious devices at its disposal, the administration is trying to make the efforts of this congress seem trivial. I don't know where all of this propaganda is coming from, charging that the Republican congress is doing nothing—but I think that the 45,000 propagandists on the federal payroll have a great deal to do with it."

MIRACLE NEEDED

PARIS, April 15—A French foreign office spokesman said today that "only a miracle can save the Moscow conference."

Pickaway county's juvenile champion speller is 13-year-old Mary Krimmel, an eighth grade student at the Jackson township school and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Krimmel, Route 2, Circleville.

Mary won the championship at a county-wide spell-down Monday afternoon and she will represent Pickaway county Saturday, May 3, when the seventh annual finals will be held in the Southern hotel at Columbus to determine the spelling champion of the central Ohio area comprising 28 counties.

The spelling competition is under the auspices of a Columbus newspaper. The winner at the Columbus finals will receive a four-day-all-expenses-paid trip to

BOY'S EFFORTS TO SAVE TRAIN BRINGS REWARD

OXFORD, O., April 15—Alertness and quick thinking that averted a probable train wreck two months ago will pay off tomorrow night for 15-year-old Billy Landfair, a student at Stewart high school in Oxford.

R. C. Diamond, superintendent of the Indianapolis division of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, announced today that Billy will leave Cincinnati tomorrow night for a four-day trip to Washington with all his expenses paid. He will accompany a tour party of boys and girls from Cincinnati and northern Kentucky.

The action that brought the award occurred when Billy noticed sparks flying from the wheels of a freight train as he waited for it to clear a crossing near his home. When the train had passed, he inspected the tracks and found a foot of the upper part of the rail had broken.

The youth immediately reported the situation to section foreman James Chasteen. Trains were re-routed while repairs were made.

H. F. Passel, division engineer of the railroad, said that Billy's action probably prevented derailment of the next train and the possible loss of lives.

SELF-DEFENSE PLEA IS TO BE MADE BY DANCER

HAVANA, April 15—Patricia Schmidt, exotic dancer of Toledo who authorities say will be indicted today for homicide in the fatal shooting of Chicago lawyer John Lester Mee, will plead self-defense.

Her attorney—Rene Castellanos—declared Miss Schmidt admits firing the fatal shot aboard Mee's yacht in Havana harbor when the victim became infuriated over her refusal to live with him unless they married. Mee is said by the attorney to have refused to marry her but to have insisted they live together.

Strong Winds Slow Ship On Long Flight Across Pacific To Alaska

ADAK, ALASKA, April 15—The "Reynolds Bombshell," its crew still hopeful of breaking the round-the-world flight record, took off from Adak, Alaska, for Edmonton, Alta., at 7:24 a. m. (est) today.

The record-seeking plane, some 59 hours out of New York on its globe-girdling flight, was beset by adverse winds as it roared across the north Pacific for the 3,000-mile hop to Edmonton.

The "Bombshell" was expected to reach Edmonton at 2:24 p. m. est. With no further delays, the plane should land at New York's LaGuardia field between 8 p. m. and 9 p. m.

The converted high-wing medium bomber, diverted from its original course by winds that dangerously reduced its fuel supply, sped by Adak at 3:37 a. m. est, headed for Anchorage, Alaska.

The plane then turned back and landed at the Aleutian naval air base at 4:25 a. m. est, where ground crews hastily refueled the craft and made minor mechanical adjustments.

AFTER a perilous over-water haul, Chicago manufacturer Milton Reynolds, backer of the flight, and his pilot and co-pilot, will make landfall in south eastern Alaska.

On the estimated eight-hour hop to Edmonton, the racing plane must climb over the rugged Stikine and Rocky mountains of northern British Columbia and traverse desolate timberlands of Alberta.

At Adak, Reynolds told International News Service that:

"Reports of mechanical trouble are incorrect. We were running low on gas and fighting headwinds. We got a little worried about it, so we put back."

The stripped-down craft rocketed over the Pacific after taking off from Tokyo at 7:25 p. m. est yesterday, climbing to 19,000 feet to avoid strong winds as it swung up the Aleutian chain.

REYNOLDS said the flight from Tokyo to Adak, some 2,460 miles, was "uneventful." The wealthy manufacturer said he (Continued on Page Two)

TEACHERS MAY QUIT IF SCHOOL FIGHT CONTINUES

CINCINNATI, O., April 15—Warring North College Hill school factions are expected to jam their high school auditorium tonight at a meeting of the board of education.

Minority members of the board are scheduled to make a second attempt to break a majority vote against the rehiring of schools superintendent William A. Cook. The board has been split, 3 to 2, on renewing Dr. Cook's contract, which expires in June.

Reports circulated that failure of the board to reverse its stand at the meeting would result in the resignations of all but four of the system's junior and senior high school teachers. However, officers of the teachers' association declined comment on the report.

Discovery of the board's intention to seek a new superintendent precipitated a students' strike March 19. Since that date, the highest attendance in the junior and senior high schools has been 88 of approximately 700 pupils.

Attempts to settle the dispute by arbitration have been of no avail, with the majority and minority members remaining adamant in their positions.

15th VICTIM DIES

COLUMBUS, O., April 15—Columbus added its 15th traffic fatality to its list today with the death of Guy Phillips, 44. Phillips was struck late Friday by a car driven by Christian Zigler, 21, Columbus.

UN DELEGATES TAKE TIME OUT FOR BASEBALL

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., April 15—The United Nations security council was baseball conscious today with most of the delegates attending the opener between the Yankees and the Philadelphia Athletics.

Soviet Delegate Andrei Gromyko who has been reading up on sports inquired: "why is one of the baseball teams called the Dodgers?"

Julius Katz-Suchy of the Polish delegation made an explanation of the name in Russian to Gromyko and then added in English:

"There are a lot of dodgers around here, too."

Gromyko grinned and said he had never seen a baseball game but had played soccer in his youth.

SNYDER URGES BIG FIRM CUTS

Treasury Secretary Says Large Companies Should Lead Price Reduction

WASHINGTON, April 15—Secretary of Treasury John Snyder declared emphatically today that big corporations making "excessive earnings" should take the lead in reducing prices.

Without naming specific companies, the secretary said that many firms are capable of making price adjustments out of excess earnings.

He told a news conference that smaller companies can reduce their price as goods come in greater supply and competition takes over.

Snyder declared: "If companies are making excess earnings they should make reductions in prices."

"I am increasingly concerned that if high prices continue there may be a recession in the fall,"

The secretary praised the Emerson radio company for its price reductions announced today.

He called this action a move "in the right direction" but indicated it would be of greater significance if the cut had come in a more basic industry.

Snyder reiterated previous statements that certain large manufacturers are contemplating "price changes downward".

He said: "By next week I can be more specific about these basic industries."

He refused to say, however, whether he had any information that U. S. Steel will lower its prices as has been rumored.

PALESTINE WIDE STRIKE CALLED BY JEWISH BODY

JERUSALEM, April 15—The Jewish Vaad Leumi — national council—called a six-hour Palestine-wide strike today in sympathy with the 2,400 illegal refugees seized aboard the blockade runner "Theodore Herzl."

British troops and Palestine Jews stood at attention as the bodies of two of the immigrants, killed in resisting a naval boarding party, were lowered from the refugee ship at Haifa.

A curfew was imposed in the port area for security reasons. Troop reinforcements cordoned off the waterfront to insure that the refugees will be disembarked without interference by the Jewish underground.

The refugees will be loaded on ferry steamers for shipment to internment camps on the island of Cyprus.

CINCINNATI, O., April 15—Warring North College Hill school factions are expected to jam their high school auditorium tonight at a meeting of the board of education.

Minority members of the board are scheduled to make a second attempt to break a majority vote against the rehiring of schools superintendent William A. Cook. The board has been split 3 to 2, on renewing Dr. Cook's contract, which expires in June.

Reports circulated that failure of the board to reverse its stand at the meeting would result in the resignations of all but four of the system's junior and senior high school teachers. However, officers of the teachers' association declined comment on the report.

Discovery of the board's intention to seek a new superintendent precipitated a students' strike March 19. Since that date, the highest attendance in the junior and senior high schools has been 88 of approximately 700 pupils.

Attempts to settle the dispute by arbitration have been of no avail, with the majority and minority members remaining adamant in their positions.

15th VICTIM DIES

COLUMBUS, O., April 15—Columbus added its 15th traffic fatality to its list today with the death of Guy Phillips, 44. Phillips was struck late Friday by a car driven by Christian Zigler, 21, Columbus.

Washington, D. C., and a chance to win the national spelling championship.

Mary Krimmel led the field of 14 contenders in Monday afternoon's spelling bee held in the Jackson township school under supervision of a committee composed of George D. McDowell, superintendent of county schools; Supt. Judson Lanman, Deer Creek township school; and Supt. R. D. Shauck, Jackson township school.

Runner-up is Peggy Essick, Ashville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Essick. Peggy is 13 years old and an eighth grade student at the Ashville school. She will attend the finals in Columbus, May 3, as an alternate, with participation in the competition in any emergency which might eliminate Mary Krimmel from the spell-down.

The Jackson entry placed first in the oral test while Peggy Essick had top score in the written test. In a special oral "spell-down" Miss Krimmel was the winner.

THE OTHER 12 spelling title aspirants who took part in Monday's spell-down, which included both written and oral tests, are: Judy Wing, Williamsport township school; Betty Lou Beltz, Muhlenberg township school; Marilyn Miller, Pickaway township school; Betty Sark, Washington township school; Patsy Boyd, Scioto township school; Barbara Haynes, Wayne township school; Walter Flack, New Holland school; David Hatfield, South Bloomfield school; Marguerite Kinch, Monroe township school; Kermit Ridgeway, Darby township school; Sharon Zwayner, Duval school; and Ruth Garrison, Perry township school.

The 14 school champions won their titles at elimination spelling bees held last week in the various schools. The contest was limited to boys and girls under the age of 16 years.

UN DELEGATES TAKE TIME OUT FOR BASEBALL

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., April 15—The United Nations security council was baseball conscious today with most of the delegates attending the opener between the Yankees and the Philadelphia Athletics.

Soviet Delegate Andrei Gromyko who has been reading up on sports inquired: "why is one of the baseball teams called the Dodgers?"

Julius Katz-Suchy of the Polish delegation made an explanation of the name in Russian to Gromyko and then added in English: "There are a lot of dodgers around here, too."

Gromyko grinned and said he had never seen a baseball game but had played soccer in his youth.

had taken regular turns at the controls.

Reynolds, in an exclusive interview with International News Service, said at 6 a. m. est today:

"We're taking off immediately — as soon as we finish this interview. We're all gassed up and ready to go."

"Tell my wife, in New York, that the only danger we've encountered so far is eating too much at these military bases."

Reynolds said the "Bombshell" should make the 3,000-mile flight to Edmonton, Alta., in about eight hours. After landing at Edmonton, the "Bombshell" will streak for New York on the final lap of its record-seeking flight.

The plane originally was scheduled to land at Anchorage, on the Alaskan mainland with Edmonton, Alta., only an emergency stop.

The Anchorage area, meantime, was reported as "sleet bound."

THE BLUE and silver-streaked ship radioed it was averaging 235 miles per hour on its flight from Tokyo. It took off from Tokyo at 9:25 a. m. (Tuesday) Tokyo time (7:25 p. m. Monday, est.).

The speedy ship, upon arrival at Tokyo, already was 24 hours ahead of the record set by Howard Hughes in 1938, via a 5,000-mile shortcut over Siberia.

But the Russian embassy in Washington had declined to grant Reynolds permission to fly over Soviet territory because it was "unable to provide technological personnel to safely get the plane through."

Hughes made his trip in 91 hours and 14 minutes.

The Reynolds flight, originally scheduled to be completed in 55 hours, now is expected to take about 65 hours.

Refueling stops have been made at Newfoundland; Paris, Cairo, Karachi, India; Calcutta, India; Shanghai and Tokyo.

The bomber took off from New York Saturday.

BRITISH TALKS CRITICIZED BY MANY GROUPS

ference that "something was going to be done" by the White House about Wallace.

Starr made the assertion after first stating that "Wallace has already had enough rope to hang himself."

He said that the President showed him a large batch of messages from persons in both England and France protesting Wallace's statements.

Starr said he told the President:

"There is keen resentment among veterans that a former vice president of the United States with the prominence and standing of Mr. Wallace, should be accusing the U. S. of launching a campaign of imperial expansion."

"Mr. Wallace is a distinguished citizen of the United States, traveling with an official passport of the United States, and as such there is little those governments and people can do except to receive and listen to him."

ONE SENATE official said a concurrent resolution denouncing the former vice-president probably would be introduced when the senate resumes debate on the 400-million-dollar "stop-Communism" plan.

Indignation ran high on Capitol hill as a result of Wallace's speeches in Britain. Some senators favored legislation asking for Wallace's recall. The house un-American activities committee took a position that the "liberal" Democrat whom Mr. Truman "fired" as commerce secretary last year had violated federal law.

POPE PRAISES U. S. EFFORTS TOWARD PEACE

ROME, April 15 — Pope Pius XII sent a special greeting to President Truman today applauding America's efforts to achieve a just world peace.

The pontiff said the world is looking to America for balanced leadership and the long-awaited freedoms enunciated in the Atlantic Charter.

Pope Pius' remarks were made in a message to a United States congressional delegation headed by Sen. Barkley (D) Ky., on its arrival in Rome from Cairo, where its members participated in a meeting of the interparliamentary union.

The pontiff spoke privately to the group and took occasion to extol the late President Roosevelt. The pope recalled his stopover at Hyde Park on his last visit to the United States.

KIWANIANS SEE FILM ON RETURN OF WARD DEAD

Government-released film on returning of war dead was shown at Monday evening's meeting of the Circleville Kiwanis Club in Hanley's. The film told the various ways the government helped in relocating bodies of war victims.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Estella Ayers Grooms; a daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Burke, London; two sons, George H. Grooms, Bellefontaine; and Charles Grooms, at home; and two brothers, Arch Grooms, Columbus; and Roy Grooms, Summit Station.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 p. m. Friday in the Defenbaugh funeral home with the Rev. Harrison McCain officiating. Burial will be in the Harrison Township cemetery at South Bloomfield. Friends may call Thursday night at the funeral home.

DAVIS RITES

Funeral services for Thomas Tipton Davis, 74, who died at 9:30 p. m. Sunday in his home at 220 West High street, will be conducted at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the residence. The Rev. Clarence Swearingen will officiate. Burial will be in the Darbyville cemetery under direction of the Defenbaugh funeral home.

BRITISH TALKS CRITICIZED BY MANY GROUPS

ference that "something was going to be done" by the White House about Wallace.

Starr made the assertion after first stating that "Wallace has already had enough rope to hang himself."

He said that the President showed him a large batch of messages from persons in both England and France protesting Wallace's statements.

Starr said he told the President:

"There is keen resentment among veterans that a former vice president of the United States with the prominence and standing of Mr. Wallace, should be accusing the U. S. of launching a campaign of imperial expansion."

"Mr. Wallace is a distinguished citizen of the United States, traveling with an official passport of the United States, and as such there is little those governments and people can do except to receive and listen to him."

ONE SENATE official said a concurrent resolution denouncing the former vice-president probably would be introduced when the senate resumes debate on the 400-million-dollar "stop-Communism" plan.

Indignation ran high on Capitol hill as a result of Wallace's speeches in Britain. Some senators favored legislation asking for Wallace's recall. The house un-American activities committee took a position that the "liberal" Democrat whom Mr. Truman "fired" as commerce secretary last year had violated federal law.

POPE PRAISES U. S. EFFORTS TOWARD PEACE

ROME, April 15 — Pope Pius XII sent a special greeting to President Truman today applauding America's efforts to achieve a just world peace.

The pontiff said the world is looking to America for balanced leadership and the long-awaited freedoms enunciated in the Atlantic Charter.

Pope Pius' remarks were made in a message to a United States congressional delegation headed by Sen. Barkley (D) Ky., on its arrival in Rome from Cairo, where its members participated in a meeting of the interparliamentary union.

The pontiff spoke privately to the group and took occasion to extol the late President Roosevelt. The pope recalled his stopover at Hyde Park on his last visit to the United States.

KIWANIANS SEE FILM ON RETURN OF WARD DEAD

Government-released film on returning of war dead was shown at Monday evening's meeting of the Circleville Kiwanis Club in Hanley's. The film told the various ways the government helped in relocating bodies of war victims.

Arthur Marr, new manager of the J. C. Penney company store, was a guest at the meeting.

SUES WAR BRIDE

George F. Boyssel, World War II veteran, filed a divorce suit in Pickaway county common pleas court, Monday, accusing his war bride, Mrs. Vera Wood Boyssel, of Blantford, Forset, England, of gross neglect of duty. In the petition Boyssel says his wife refused to come to the United States to make her home with him. He says they were married Sept. 14, 1945 at Blantford, Eng., while he was stationed there with the Army, that three months after the wedding he was returned to the United States, that he was discharged from the Army on May 22, 1946, and that he has not heard from his wife since December, 1945.

GEORGE FISHPAW QUILTS AS J. C. PENNEY MANAGER

George K. Fishpaw, 826 North Court street, announced his resignation as manager of the J. C. Penney company store in Circleville effective Tuesday.

Mr. Fishpaw's successor is Arthur Marr, who came to Circleville from Hamilton where he was assistant manager of the Penney store.

Identified with the J. C. Penney company organization for a number of years Mr. Fishpaw was manager of the Circleville establishment for about two years, coming from Massillon where he managed the Penney store. Mr. Fishpaw said his future activities were undetermined.

that she came in a few minutes later, got her coat and said that she was going to tell the man, a former acquaintance, that she did not want anything more to do with him.

The former Army lieutenant related that Miss Smith did not return, but that he did not learn until later what had happened. A neighbor, Mrs. Mary Lear, said that the girl had been standing outside a parked automobile. As she turned away toward the apartment, Mrs. Lear continued, one of the men grabbed her, struck her in the face and forced her into the car.

Brooklyn Still Has No Pilot As Play Begins; Many Changes Noted

NEW YORK, April 15 — O'er the land of the spree and the home of the second mortgage will resound the nostalgic echo of ball meeting bat today as another milestone is hailed in the immortal manner that is peculiarly baseball's own.

With bands, brave colors and a spirit of high carnival, eight major league cities were prepared to put on the big blow-off of its 1947 opening to a total attendance that might, with luck and good "theatre," touch the 200,000 mark.

Behind the sparkling glitter of the occasion were some starkly realistic factors that made this inaugural the strangest of the 47 that have been observed in the modern, inter-league game.

BROOKLYN, for instance, is to take the field today with the first Negro ever to wear a major league uniform in a regulation game, namely, Jackie Robinson, nominated at first base in the starting lineup. The Dodgers have the further distinction of going all the way into the morning of opening day without a manager.

A week ago, they had Leo Durocher, the distinguished orator. But Commissioner Chandler ruled him off for the season, holding his oratory — and other symptoms — as having been "detrimental" to baseball's fair escutcheon.

THE SCHEDULE calls for the following pairings:

National League — Boston Braves vs Brooklyn Dodgers at Ebbets Field; St. Louis Cardinals vs Cincinnati Reds at Crosley Field; New York Giants vs Phillies at Shibe park; Pittsburgh Pirates vs Chicago Cubs at Wrigley Field.

American League — Chicago White Sox vs Cleveland Indians at municipal stadium; Philadelphia Athletics vs New York Yankees at Yankee stadium; Washington Senators vs Boston Red Sox at Fenway park; Detroit Tigers vs St. Louis Browns at Sportsman's park.

All that Brooklyn horseplay, incidentally, is enhanced by the further fact that the American league's home run champion, Hank Greenberg, is to open the season with Pittsburgh in the other league.

EVEN the weather was inclined to be a little eccentric, with only two of the eight openings favored by forecasts of clear, unblemished skies.

Throughout the East the prospect was less than ideal. As Mr. Griffith's private preview at Washington was to disclose, His game with the Yankees was rained out yesterday. His game with the Red Sox may be rained out today.

Rain also was predicted for the Giants' opening in Philadelphia, though the forecast was more optimistic for the Yankee stadium and Ebbets field.

Granted favorable auspices, opening day attendances, with the exception of St. Louis were expected to run well up toward established capacities.

TROUT FISHING STARTS; BLACK BASS PROTECTED

COLUMBUS, O., April 15 — Ohioans had a green light for 1947 trout fishing today, but black bass were put on the "hands off" list in the southern zone of the state.

Trout season in the Buckeye state opened at midnight last night. It closes Sept. 16.

The southern zone black bass season closed at midnight last night until June 1. In the northern zone, the season remains open until May 1 because of a later spawning season.

Division of conservation officials have announced trout limits the same as last year — seven inches in length and a bag top of six per day per person.

Trout are found only in waters remaining cold, usually around 50 degrees, during the Summer. Favorite Ohio spots for trout anglers are Mad River, Cedar Run and Moore's run in Logan and Champaign counties and Maccoschee creek in Champaign.

BAKSI FAVORED LONDON, April 15—Joe Baksi, broad-shouldered, stout-chinned heavyweight from Kulpmont, Pa., was a 2 to 1 favorite today over Bruce Woodcock, empire heavyweight champion, in their 10-round elimination bout tonight for a chance at Joe Louis.

CARDS FURNISH OPPOSITION FOR REDS' OPENER

CINCINNATI, April 15 — For the 62nd time in 63 years, the Cincinnati Reds were to open their National League baseball season at home today.

Opposition for the Reds came in a big package. No less an opponent than the world champion St. Louis Cardinals was prepared to help the Reds begin festivities.

The Cards are odds-on favorites to repeat as champions of the senior circuit.

Johnny Neun's Reds, by the same token, are generally selected to wind up in the cellar or, at best, a notch or two above.

Despite the unflattering consensus, Reds president Warren Giles joined Neun in promising that the rookie-studded Rhinelanders will cause other clubs "a lot of headaches."

Upward of 30,000 fans were expected for the inaugural.

The weatherman's forecast was partly cloudy and warmer. Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, forsaking his native Cleveland, was on hand to throw out the first ball.

Boss Neun selected Ewell Blackwell, lanky six-foot, five-inch right-hander, as his opening game pitcher.

George Munger, who returned from service to win two and lose the same number in 1946, was scheduled to twirl for the Cards.

BIRDS TROUNCE NEWARK D TEAM BY 33-0 SCORE

NEWARK, O., April 15—The Newark Ohio State loop club was convinced today that the Columbus Red Birds weren't in their league.

The class AA Red Birds swamped the Class D Newark team, 33 to 0, in an exhibition contest last night.

Columbus had 26 hits, good for 36 bases. Even Manager Hal Anderson got into the act, hitting safely and stealing a base.

Newark made nine errors while three rookie hurlers issued 13 bases on balls.

CHS GOLFERS DEFEATED 12-0 BY CHILLICOTHE

Chillicothe high school golfers scored a 12-0 victory over Circleville linksmen Monday afternoon at Pickaway Country Club.

The visitors were paced by Elliott, No. 1 man, who scored birdies on No. 3 and No. 5 holes and finished with 85. He was opposed by Rod Heine, who shot 102 as the low Circleville score.

Results of individual matches: Heine, 53, 49, 102, Elliott (Ch) 43, 42, 85.

Eveland (Ci) 56, 52, 108; Bowlers, (Ch) 49, 47, 96.

Richards, (Ci) 49, 55, 104; Pack, (Ch) 48, 45, 93.

Buskirk (Ci), 61, 60, 121; Magill (Ch), 54, 52, 106.

Thursday London high school golf team comes here for a match.

Other dates on the Circleville schedule: April 21, Lancaster here; April 25, at Lancaster; April 26, at Washington C. H.; April 28, at Chillicothe; May 8, at London; May 16, 17, district tournament; May 22, Washington C. H. here.

FELLER TRIES TO WIN FIRST ONE FOR TRIBE

CLEVELAND, April 15 — Upwards of 60,000 baseball fans were expected to flock to Cleveland's lakefront stadium today for the season's opener between the Indians and the Chicago White Sox.

With 40,000 seats already sold in advance up to yesterday, the Indians were assured of the biggest first day crowd in the club's history — well above the standing 42,000 mark.

The weatherman forecast adequate, if not perfect, baseball weather for the season life-lifter.

The official prediction — cool and cloudy, but no rain. The Tribe at last appears to have some batsmen among the nine men on the field, and with Bob Feller on the mound, the pitching problem is half solved.

NEWARK, O., April 15—The Newark Ohio State loop club was convinced today that the Columbus Red Birds weren't in their league.

The class AA Red Birds swamped the Class D Newark team, 33 to 0, in an exhibition contest last night.

Columbus had 26 hits, good for 36 bases. Even Manager Hal Anderson got into the act, hitting safely and stealing a base.

Newark made nine errors while three rookie hurlers issued 13 bases on balls.

CHS GOLFERS DEFEATED 12-0 BY CHILLICOTHE

Chillicothe high school golfers scored a 12-0 victory over Circleville linksmen Monday afternoon at Pickaway Country Club.

The visitors were paced by El-Hott, No. 1 man, who scored birdies on No. 3 and No. 5 holes and finished with 85. He was opposed by Rod Heine, who shot 102 as the low Circleville score.

Results of individual matches: Heine, 53, 49, 102, Elliott (Ch) 43, 42, 85.

Eveland (Ci) 56, 52, 108; Bowers, (Ch) 49, 47, 96.

Richards, (Ci) 49, 55, 104; Pack, (Ch) 48, 45, 93.

Buskirk (Ci), 61, 60, 121; Maggill (Ch), 54, 52, 106.

Thursday London high school golf team comes here for a match.

Other dates on the Circleville schedule: April 21, Lancaster here; April 25, at Lancaster; April 26, at Washington C. H.; April 28, at Chillicothe; May 8, at London; May 16, 17, district tournament; May 22, Washington C. H. here.

Some of the open dates on the schedule may be filled later, Coach Steve Brudzinski said.

FELLER TRIES TO WIN FIRST ONE FOR TRIBE

CLEVELAND, April 15 — Upwards of 60,000 baseball fans were expected to flock to Cleveland's lakefront stadium today for the season's opener between the Indians and the Chicago White Sox.

With 40,000 seats already sold in advance up to yesterday, the Indians were assured of the biggest first day crowd in the club's history — well above the standing 42,000 mark.

The weatherman forecast adequate, if not perfect, baseball weather for the season lid-lifter.

The official prediction — cool and cloudy, but no rain. The Tribe at last appears to have some batsmen among the nine men on the field, and with Bob Feller on the mound, the pitching problem is half solved.

VANDENBERG

AS MICHIGAN'S Senator Vandenberg continues to deny any interest in becoming the Republican presidential candidate for 1948, the public seems more and more inclined to view him in that role. Vandenberg's popularity is increasing. A few years ago he was an outstanding isolationist. Now he is one of his party's and the country's leading internationalists. His sponsoring of the UN in the Senate had great weight in bringing the United States to its support, while his own subsequent part in UN deliberations has won him the respect of Democrats as well as Republicans.

This indifference to presidential ambition might in a lesser man be only good political technique; but it looks as if Vandenberg were trying to do exactly what he says he is doing, that is, giving all his energies exclusively to forwarding the cause of the United Nations. He has grown greatly in knowledge, in power and in singleness of purpose in the last few years. His name may be recorded in bolder type in the long record of history as a champion of the unification of mankind than has been accorded many whose only claim to fame was that of having been President.

SPEED AND LONGEVITY

RALLY ROUND the hangar, boys! The airplane is really practical, and operates at the astonishing speed of five miles a minute. Who would ever have imagined it, when, just the other day it seems, this marvel appeared and began to drive the horse and a lot of other things off the modern scene. There is speed, speed and even more speed.

But in sober truth, any level-headed man may ask, "What of it?" Speed itself, when analyzed and pored over a little, doesn't amount to much. There are many other things of more importance — especially matters having to do with man himself, his nature and possibilities. With all our knowledge, we have hardly made a start yet along this line. And the life span, some men maintain, is creeping up toward 90 years.

They say it will take five to fifteen years to cure whatever ails Greece, and nobody will bet much money against that guess.

Kingdoms may rise and fall, but the bobby-soxers are not concerned.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:
Up late so little dallying before cranking the wagon and heading downtown. In the morning mail a letter bearing a new purple stamp that goes forth on a truly great mission to visualize one of the most urgent problems. The stamp bears the likeness of Joseph Pulitzer. You have heard of him. A great publisher.

Alleyne Ireland in his book, "Joseph Pulitzer," published in 1914, quotes as follows from a talk with Mr. Pulitzer, the opinions of the publisher having such a direct bearing on things being said and thought of the same American press to day that they warrant repeating in detail:

"As a matter of fact the criticism you hear about the American press are founded on a dislike for our headlines and for the prominence we give to crime, to corruption in office, and to sensational topics generally; the charge of inaccuracy is just thrown in to make it look worse. I do not believe that one person in a thousand who attacks the American press for being inaccurate has ever taken the trouble to investigate the facts.

"Now, about this matter of sensationalism: a newspaper should be scrupulously accurate, it should be clean, it should avoid everything salacious or suggestive, everything that could offend good taste or lower the moral tone of its readers; but within these limits it is the duty of a newspaper to print the news. When I speak of good taste and of good moral tone I do not mean the kind of good taste which is offended by every reference to the unpleasant things of life, I do not mean the kind of morality which refuses to recognize the existence of immorality — that type of moral hypocrisy has done more to check the moral progress of humanity than all the immoral people put together — what I mean is the kind of good taste which demands that frankness should be linked with decency, the kind of moral tone which is braced and not relaxed when it is brought face to face with vice.

"Some people try and make you believe that a newspaper should not devote its space to long and dramatic accounts of murders, railroad wrecks, fires, lynchings, political corruption, embezzlements, frauds, graft, divorces, what you will. I tell you they are wrong and I believe that if they thought the thing out they would see that they are wrong.

"We are a democracy, and there is only one way to get a democracy on its feet in the matter of its individual, its so-

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 15—President Truman got one foot off the straight, narrow and just wage-price tightrope at his press conference seminar on economics. Some hearers thought there was danger he might fall into the old CIO dustbin, as pure CIO economic dust was flying thick in the air around there.

Some excitement was caused by Mr. Truman's observation that further price increases would bring more wage increases. Such a prospect, of course, would be an invitation to step back on the same old merry-go-round, which was such a foolish, dizzy whirl that even the CIO abandoned it at least eased off it in publicity.

My information shows plainly the President meant this only as a warning and not as an invitation. The intent was not at all clear in the news accounts because the President himself did not make it clear. The remark was intended to dissuade business from trying any further increases. In fact the inside understanding of the whole seminar among those in the know (the number being too few in this case) was to exert moral suasion. It was definitely not for the purpose of bestirring again the latent CIO and OPA economic dust which long since has laid down and died on the floor. You may accept this as gospel.

But Mr. Truman unfortunately encouraged economic dust throwing by two other things he did which are subject to even a greater misinterpretation. He said it might do some good to ease the anti-trust act to permit some fair downward price adjustments. In some few prices this might help. But the prices in these few cases are not the burdensome living costs so gravely affecting the people in general. Such action would not affect milk, cream, eggs and bread. Most people believe Mr. Truman might possibly do a lot more good if he proposed exactly the opposite course—namely more rigid enforcement of the antitrust laws. They were made to prevent combinations holding prices high.

The second time he worked the vacuum cleaner in reverse was when he failed to demur to a reporter's suggestion of the old union argument that "profits have been greatly increased, sometimes as high as 300 percent." No news follower needs to have this one explained. Just turn over to the stock market pages. Read the price. See if stocks have gone up. You will find that stock prices have not even gone up to the extent of the cost of living and yet stock prices are based wholly on current profits and expectations of profits. Many have gone down lately.

The President's remark on this point was plainly subject to dangerous misinterpretations, especially as the CIO is trying now at this very moment to wheedle another price increase out of steel and autos under the same delusion. The profits of U S Steel and General Motors are rather open books, and I'm tired of telling them, but the truth of that situation can be obscured from the country by just such propaganda as is being fostered out of the press seminar.

Mr. Truman should have been specific, because the price problem is specific. What profits went up 300 percent? No one mentioned the company or companies, or the precise nature of the cast in point. To cite

An Alarming Condition Which Mother May Notice in Baby

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

LUCKILY for all of us, most mothers are easily alarmed and quick to note anything out of the way in the physical condition of their babies. Few things, perhaps, put mothers more on the alert than noticing that when Baby has a bowel movement there is blood with it. Though this is a condition which requires the immediate care of a doctor, it is fortunately not serious in nine cases out of ten.

The bleeding, of course, may come from a number of different things but, according to Dr. Louis J. Hirschman of Detroit, the most common cause in infants and children is the presence of what is known as a polyp. A polyp is a tumor growth coming from the lining membrane of the bowel.

Treatment Not Difficult
If only one polyp is present, the treatment is usually not difficult. It is also rather easy to make a diagnosis of this condition because it produces only small amounts of blood which is bright red in color and there is no pain when the bleeding occurs. If the polyp is close to the rectal opening it may protrude.

The polyp is removed surgically. After its removal the child is allowed to be up and about after 24 hours. It may be necessary to use enemas or injections of baking soda solution into the lower bowel for the first two or three days to keep the stool soft.

Is Not Serious

While a single polyp is not a serious condition, if many of these growths are present treatment is more difficult. There is more bleeding, and anemia or lessening of the amount of coloring in the blood occurs. There is also loss of weight. An operation with removal of a segment of the bowel is usually required to overcome the difficulty.

Another rectal condition which occurs in children is known as prolapse of the rectum. In this condition there is protruding of the lower part of the bowel particularly during a bowel movement.

According to Dr. Hirschman, this condition can often be corrected in infants by having the child move his bowels in a reclining position instead of on an infant's toilet seat. Sometimes the toilet seat is made with an oval opening which gives more support to the buttocks. Surgical operation for this condition is rarely necessary. In more severe cases, however, a procedure known as cauterization has been found quite helpful.

While as a rule these bowel conditions are not serious they require the immediate attention of a physician.

For Tuesday, April 15

A sudden and thrilling episode or chain of circumstances is destined to prove adventurous, exciting and of far-reaching significance, with the unusual and unexpected giving highlights to the scene. And while there are several indications of much pleasure and high adventure, at the same time there is prospect of just as surprising and baffling situations, disruptive and causing separations.

Exceptional prudence, discretion and management may avert estrangements.

Birthday Forecast

Those whose birthday it is are on the brink of a year of the strange, sudden and quite unexpected, with dramatic and far-reaching consequence, affecting the home, romantic and business associations.

While impulses and emotions are highly stimulated, there is yet need for careful maneuvering of difficult or critical situations in order to avoid smashes, estrangements and separations.

A child born on this day may possess unusual talents and equipment for meeting strange adventures and experiences in a romantic career.

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE
A SHARP foreboding of danger flashed along Val's nerves, accompanied by the sure knowledge that she'd better steer the conversation into safe channels. She didn't want to let herself be maneuvered into a position where she'd have to tell Kevin the truth.

She began, "But, darling, have I ever implied—"

"Please don't interrupt," Kevin told her, his suddenly grave blue eyes on her face. "Let me finish. The thing is, Val, I haven't been in a position before to ask you to marry me. On, I know pretty well how things are with you. It's obvious. You're a girl from a wealthy family, who's always had everything you want. I suppose that's why you haven't wanted me to go to your home, meet your parents. Maybe there's a little snob in you, but I can't say I blame you much. A crazy artist like me, with nothing much to offer in the way of security—"

"Kevin," Val tried to stem the tide, "it isn't like that at all. I haven't felt for a minute—"

"Shut up," Kevin told her good-humoredly. "I'm telling you—remember? The point is everything's changed now. I'm a man of position and substance—at least, a good enough position and sufficient substance to ask you to be my wife. I've had this super-duper contract offered me by a string of national magazines in New York, enough money to support you comfortably, even if your family cuts you off without a farthing, as they may well do. So—"

His eyes begged her, as well as his hands on her elbows, his husky, humble voice. "What do you say, beautiful?"

What could she say? Val buried her cheek against his chest, so that she wouldn't have to look into his eyes. Her thoughts raced like mad things, seeking a way out of this impossible situation in which she found herself involved. In which, she corrected, she had deliberately involved herself.

She murmured, clinging to Kevin. "I—I don't know what to say."

"If you say, 'This is so sudden, I'll clip you on the nose. You must have seen it coming.'"

It had come so much faster, though, than she had expected. She had thought there would be a little period in which to think, to evaluate, to decide. Time to think? That was it! A girl had a right to ask for that.

Val said, "Darling, I'm terribly fond of you. I believe I love you. But—you've got to give me a little time to think. I'm—al confused—"

"Why?" Kevin asked, chuckling. "Don't tell me no one ever asked you to marry them before—a beautiful dish like you!"

"I still have to think about it," Val insisted.

"Okay," Kevin said, "I'll help you."

He put her from him, leaned her back against the cushions of the couch. "There, now, I've always heard the proximity of the object of a girl's affections isn't conducive to clear thinking on her part. So I'll stay way over here and let you think for fifteen minutes. That should be ample."

"Kevin, you fool," Val laughed a little, despite the tumult within her. "How can I—"

"Wait!" Kevin commanded gravely. "A cigarette—that should help. I always think better over a cigarette—maybe you can, too."

He fished a package from the pocket of his slacks, handed it to Val with the utmost solicitude. "Help yourself."

She took one. "This is ridiculous."

"Matches, matches," Kevin murmured, feeling in all his pockets to no avail. "I never have any matches."

"In my bag," Val said absently. Kevin got up and went over to the chair where she had left her things. Still no quarm of memory stirred her. Kevin picked up her brown suede handbag and began rummaging in it.

"Women's pocketbooks!" he said ironically.

Suddenly Val's heart stood still in her breast.

"Ah, here they are." His hand came up from the depths of the bag and in his palm was a book of matches, a fat lipstick—and something that flashed scarlet and blue and blinding yellow in the flooding April sunlight. Val's wedding ring.

Her heart that had stood still beat heavily now. And there was a taste of bitterness in her throat, of utter defeat.

She couldn't stop staring at the ring, nor, apparently, could Kevin. But his eyes lifted first. There was a chill blue flame in them.

"A wedding ring," he said, his voice ominously quiet.

Val wet her lips, still staring at the ring in Kevin's palm, unable to lift her eyes to his face.

"Yours," he said, through tight lips. It was a statement, not a question.

If Val thought she could have got away with a denial, she would have lied even then. But her mind was a whirling confusion, her hands began to shake. Finally, as Kevin strode toward her, she forced her glance upward to his face. The white, set fury of it shocked her. Still she couldn't speak.

Kevin said, standing before her, his hand extended with the sparkling circle of diamonds alone in it now. "It is yours, isn't it, Val? Answer me!"

"Yes, it's mine."

"Married," Kevin said, and she covered a little at the cold, final sound of the word on his lips. "You were married all the time—while you were coming here, letting me fall in love with you—letting me believe you cared for me."

"I—I know. It was—dreadful."

"But why, Val? Why in God's name could any woman do such a thing?"

"I—don't know, Kevin. It—began accidentally that day we met. You reminded me so much of—" someone I had known. I told you that—remember?"

handles.

Giraffes seldom are heard to utter a sound, according to Fac-tographs. Or, maybe, it's just because their squeal comes from

"Yes, but I don't see what that has to do with the rest of it."

"I loved him," Val said harshly. "The man you remind me of. I loved him and he was killed—and then there wasn't anything for such a long while. I—wanted to die, too—but I didn't—"

"But your husband?" Kevin prodded, still standing there before her, his voice still taut with fury, with deep hurt. "Or—were you married to the man who was killed?"

Val had gone too far along the path of truth to turn aside on this unexpected detour. She said, "My husband is very much alive. We've only been married a few months—he's much older than I."

"And wealthy?" Kevin taunted. "I'd be willing to wager he's wealthy."

"But that wasn't why I married him," Val denied.

"Don't tell me you love him, too?" Kevin's lip curled in contempt. "And the one who died—and me a little, because I remind you of him. Is there no limit to your capacity for loving?"

Tears began to slide down Val's cheeks. "Don't, Kevin—"

"Why not? Pity isn't in you, so how can you expect it from me? Honor and decency aren't in you, either. Married—and deliberately misleading me—"

He broke off at a sudden memory. "And even today, when I asked you to marry me—you tried to stall. You had to think, you said—you believed you loved me but you weren't quite sure. How under Heaven did you expect to lie your way out of that situation?"

Val was sobbing now, her face hidden in her hands. "Kevin—darling—I'm so miserable—so unhappy."

"You're unhappy," his voice grated.

"I'm so—terribly fond of you," Val wept. "Maybe you're the one I love most, after all. If you'd only give me a chance to figure things out—a little time to think—"

"Time?" Kevin said. "Why, blast you, I wouldn't give you one little minute more out of all eternity. You're nothing but a cheat—no man in his right mind would trust you or believe in you after the way you've acted—the dirty, rotten way—"

His voice thickened and an ugly dark red came up under his skin. Later, the love he had borne for her in such good faith would ache and throb, he would be half crazy with longing. But now the cutting shock of the thing she had done had numbed all feeling, so that he had the strength to say to her what must be said.

He caught her by the shoulder and his fingers dug brutally into her soft flesh, so that she cringed from him, her hands dropping from her distorted face.

Kevin said, "Get out of here, you lying cheat! And don't come back—don't ever come back! I never want to lay eyes on you again as long as I live..."

Vandenberg's popularity is increasing. A few years ago he was an outstanding isolationist. Now he is one of his party's and the country's leading internationalists. His sponsoring of the UN in the Senate had great weight in bringing the United States to its support, while his own subsequent part in UN deliberations has won him the respect of Democrats as well as Republicans.

This indifference to presidential ambition might in a lesser man be only good political technique; but it looks as if Vandenberg were trying to do exactly what he says he is doing, that is, giving all his energies exclusively to forwarding the cause of the United Nations. He has grown greatly in knowledge, in power and in singleness of purpose in the last few years. His name may be recorded in bolder type in the long record of history as a champion of the unification of mankind than has been accorded many whose only claim to fame was that of having been President.

SPEED AND LONGEVITY

RALLY ROUND the hangar, boys! The airplane is really practical, and operates at the astonishing speed of five miles a minute. Who would ever have imagined it, when, just the other day it seems, this marvel appeared and began to drive the horse and a lot of other things off the modern scene. There is speed, speed and even more speed.

But in sober truth, any level-headed man may ask, "What of it?" Speed itself, when analyzed and pored over a little, doesn't amount to much. There are many other things of more importance — especially matters having to do with man himself, his nature and possibilities. With all our knowledge, we have hardly made a start yet along this line. And the life span, some men maintain, is creeping up toward 90 years.

They say it will take five to fifteen years to cure whatever ails Greece, and nobody will bet much money against that guess.

Kingdoms may rise and fall, but the bobby-soxers are not concerned.

Pages From the Diary of An

Antiquated Reporter:
Up late so little dallying before cranking the wagon and heading downtown. In the morning mail a letter bearing a new purple stamp that goes forth on a truly great mission to visualize one of the most urgent problems. The stamp bears the likeness of Joseph Pulitzer. You have heard of him. A great publisher.

Alleyne Ireland in his book, "Joseph Pulitzer," published in 1914, quotes as follows from a talk with Mr. Pulitzer, the opinions of the publisher having such a direct bearing on things being said and thought of the same American press today that they warrant repeating in detail.

"As a matter of fact the criticism you hear about the American press are founded on a dislike for our headlines and for the prominence we give to crime, to corruption in office, and to sensational topics generally; the charge of inaccuracy is just thrown in to make it look worse. I do not believe that one person in a thousand who attacks the American press for being inaccurate has ever taken the trouble to investigate the facts.

"Now, about this matter of sensationalism: a newspaper should be scrupulously accurate, it should be clean, it should avoid everything salacious or suggestive, everything that could offend good taste or lower the moral tone of its readers; but within these limits it is the duty of a newspaper to print the news. When I speak of good taste and of good moral tone I do not mean the kind of good taste which is offended by every reference to the unpleasant things of life. I do not mean the kind of morality which refuses to recognize the existence of immorality — that type of moral hypocrisy has done more to check the moral progress of humanity than all the immoral people put together — what I mean is the kind of good taste which demands that frankness should be linked with decency, the kind of moral tone which is braced and not relaxed when it is brought face to face with vice.

"Some people try and make you believe that a newspaper should not devote its space to long and dramatic accounts of murders, railroad wrecks, fires, lynchings, political corruption, embezzlements, frauds, graft, divorces, what you will. I tell you they are wrong, and I believe that if they thought the thing out they would see that they are wrong.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 15—President Truman got one foot off the straight, narrow and just wage-price tightrope at his press conference seminar on economics. Some hearers thought there was danger he might fall into the old CIO dustbin, as pure CIO economic dust was flying thick in the air around there.

Some excitement was caused by Mr. Truman's observation that further price increases would bring more wage increases. Such a prospect, of course, would be an invitation to step back on the same old merry-go-round, which was such a foolish, dizzy whirl that even the CIO abandoned it—at least eased off it in publicity.

My information shows plainly the President meant this only as a warning and not as an invitation. The intent was not at all clear in the news accounts because the President himself did not make it clear. The remark was intended to dissuade business from trying any further increases. In fact the inside understanding of the whole seminar among those in the know (the number being too few in this case) was to exert moral suasion. It was definitely not for the purpose of bestirring again the latent CIO and OPA economic dust which long since has laid down and died on the floor. You may accept this as gospel.

But Mr. Truman unfortunately encouraged economic dust throwing by two other things he did which are subject to even a greater misinterpretation. He said it might do some good to ease the anti-trust act to permit some fair downward price adjustments. In some few prices this might help. But the prices in these few cases are not the burdensome living costs so gravely affecting the people in general. Such action would not affect milk, cream, eggs and bread. Most people believe Mr. Truman might possibly do a lot more good if he proposed exactly the opposite course—namely more rigid enforcement of the antitrust laws. They were made to prevent combinations holding prices high.

The second time he worked the vacuum cleaner in reverse was when he failed to demur to a reporter's suggestion of the old union argument that "profits have been greatly increased, sometimes as high as 300 percent." No news follower needs to have this one explained. Just turn over to the stock market pages. Read the price. See if stocks have gone up. You will find that stock prices have not even gone up to the extent of the cost of living and yet stock prices are based wholly on current profits and expectations of profits. Many have gone down lately.

The President's remark on this point was plainly subject to dangerous misinterpretations, especially as the CIO is trying now at this very moment to wheedle another price increase out of steel and autos under the same delusion. The profits of U S Steel and General Motors are rather open books, and I'm tired of telling them, but the truth of that situation can be obscured from the country by just such propaganda as is being fostered out of the press seminar.

Mr. Truman should have been specific, because the price problem is specific. What profits went up 300 percent? No one mentioned the company or companies, or the precise nature of the cast in point. To cite

An Alarming Condition Which Mother May Notice in Baby

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

LUCKILY for all of us, most mothers are easily alarmed and quick to note anything out of the way in the physical condition of their babies. Few things, perhaps, put mothers more on the alert than noticing that when Baby has a bowel movement there is blood with it. Though this is a condition which requires the immediate care of a doctor, it is fortunately not serious in nine cases out of ten.

The bleeding, of course, may come from a number of different things but, according to Dr. Louis J. Hirschman of Detroit, the most common cause in infants and children is the presence of what is known as a polyp. A polyp is a tumor growth coming from the lining membrane of the bowel.

Treatment Not Difficult
If only one polyp is present, the treatment is usually not difficult. It also is rather easy to make a diagnosis of this condition because it produces only small amounts of blood which is bright red in color and there is no pain when the bleeding occurs. If the polyp is close to the rectal opening it may protrude. The polyp is removed surgically. After its removal the child is allowed to be up and about after 24 hours. It may be necessary to use enemas or injections of baking soda solution into the lower bowel for the first two or three days to keep the stool soft.

Is Not Serious

While a single polyp is not a serious condition, if many of these growths are present treatment is more difficult. There is more bleeding, and anemia or lessening of the amount of coloring in the blood occurs. There is also loss of weight. An operation with removal of a segment of the bowel is usually required to overcome the difficulty.

Another rectal condition which occurs in children is known as prolapse of the rectum. In this condition there is protruding of the lower part of the bowel particularly during a bowel movement.

According to Dr. Hirschman, this condition can often be corrected in infants by having the child move his bowels in a reclining position instead of on an infant's toilet seat. Sometimes the toilet seat is made with an oval opening which gives more support to the buttocks. Surgical operation for this condition is rarely necessary. In more severe cases, however, a procedure known as cauterization has been found quite helpful.

While as a rule these bowel conditions are not serious they require the immediate attention of a physician.

STARS SAY—

For Tuesday, April 15
A sudden and thrilling episode or chain of circumstances is destined to prove adventurous, exciting and of far-reaching significance, with the unusual and unexpected giving highlights to the scene. And while there are several indications of much pleasure and high adventure, at the same time there is prospect of just as surprising and baffling situations, disruptive and causing separations.

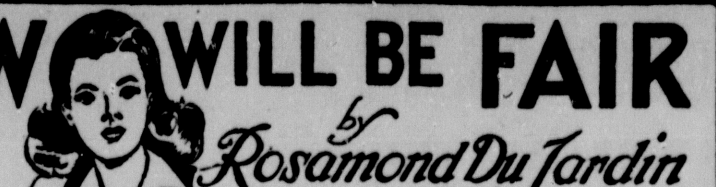

Exceptional prudence, discretion and management may avert estrangements.
Birthday Forecast
Those whose birthday it is are on the brink of a year of the strange, sudden and quite unexpected, with dramatic and far-reaching consequence, affecting the home, romantic and business associations.

While impulses and emotions are highly stimulated, there is yet need for careful maneuvering of difficult or critical situations in order to avoid smashes, estrangements and separations.

A child born on this day may possess unusual talents and equipment for meeting strange adventures and experiences in a romantic career.

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE

A SHARP foreboding of danger flashed along Val's nerves, accompanied by the sure knowledge that she'd better steer the conversation into safe channels. She didn't want to let herself be maneuvered into a position where she'd have to tell Kevin the truth.

She began, "But, darling, have I ever implied—"

"Please don't interrupt," Kevin told her, his suddenly grave blue eyes on her face. "Let me finish. The thing is, Val, I haven't been in a position before to ask you to marry me. Oh, I know pretty well how things are with you. It's obvious. You're a girl from a wealthy family, who's always had everything you want. I suppose that's why you haven't wanted me to go to your home, meet your parents. Maybe there's a little snob in you, but I can't say I blame you much. A crazy artist like me, with nothing much to offer in the way of security—"

"Kevin," Val tried to stem the tide, "it isn't like that at all. I haven't felt for a minute—"

"Shut up," Kevin told her good-humoredly. "I'm telling you—remember? The point is everything's changed now. I'm a man of position and substance—at least, a good enough position and sufficient substance to ask you to be my wife. I've had this super-duper contract offered me by a string of national magazines in New York, enough money to support you comfortably, even if your family cuts you off without a farthing, as they may well do. So—"

His eyes begged her, as well as his hands on her elbows, his husky, humble voice. "What do you say, beautiful?"

What could she say? Val buried her cheek against his chest, so that she wouldn't have to look into his eyes. Her thoughts raced like mad things, seeking a way out of this impossible situation in which she found herself involved. In which, she corrected, she had deliberately involved herself.

She murmured, clinging to Kevin, "I—I don't know what to say."

"If you say, 'This is so sudden, I'll clip you one. You must have seen it coming.'"

It had come so much faster, though, than she had expected. She had thought there would be a little period in which to think, to evaluate, to decide. Time to think? That was it! A girl had a right to ask for that.

Val said, "Darling, I'm terribly fond of you. I believe I love you. But—"

But—she'd got to give me a little time to think. I'm—"

"Why?" Kevin asked, chuckling. "Don't tell me no one ever asked you to marry them before—a beautiful dish like you!"

"I still have to think about it," Val insisted.

"Okay," Kevin said, "I'll help you."

He put her from him, leaned her back against the cushions of the couch. "There, now. I've always heard the proximity of the object of a girl's affections isn't conducive to clear thinking on her part. So"

"I'll stay way over here and let you think for fifteen minutes. That should be ample."

"Kevin, you fool," Val laughed a little, despite the tumult within her. "How can I—"

"Wait!" Kevin commanded gravely. "A cigarette—that should help. I always think better over a cigarette—maybe you can, too."

He fished a package from the pocket of his slacks, handed it to Val with the utmost solicitude. "Help yourself."

She took one. "This is ridiculous."

"Matches, matches," Kevin murmured, feeling in all his pockets to no avail. "I never have any matches."

"In my bag," Val said absently. Kevin got up and went over to the chair where she had left her things. Still no quarm of memory stirred her. Kevin picked up her brown suede handbag and began rummaging in it.

"Women's pocketbooks!" he said ironically. Suddenly Val's heart stood still in her breast.

"Ah, here they are." His hand came up from the depths of the bag and in his palm were a book of matches, a fat lipstick—and something that flashed scarlet and blue and blinding yellow in the flooding April sunlight. Val's wedding ring.

Her heart that had stood still beat heavily now. And there was a taste of bitterness in her throat, of utter defeat.

She couldn't stop staring at the ring, nor, apparently, could Kevin. But his eyes lifted first. There was a chill blue flame in them.

"A wedding ring," he said, his voice ominously quiet.

Val wet her lips, still staring at the ring in Kevin's palm, unable to lift her eyes to his face.

"Yours," he said, through tight lips. It was a statement, not a question.

If Val thought she could have got away with a denial, she would have lied even then. But her mind was a whirling confusion, her hands began to shake. Finally, as Kevin strode toward her, she forced her glance upward to his face. The white, set fury of it shocked her. Still she couldn't speak.

Kevin said, standing before her, his hand extended with the sparkling circle of diamonds alone in it now, "It is yours, isn't it, Val? Answer me!"

"Yes, it is mine."

"Married," Kevin said, and she covered a little at the cold, final sound of the word on his lips. "You were married all the time—while we were coming here, letting me fall in love with you—letting me believe you cared for me."

"I—I know. It was—dreadful."

"But why, Val? Why in God's name could any woman do such a thing?"

"I—don't know, Kevin. It—began accidentally that day we met. You reminded me so much of—"

Delegates Named To State Convention At Meeting

With the group singing "America the Beautiful", Mrs. T. L. Huston, president, opened the April 14 meeting of Monday club in the trustee's room of Memorial hall.

An invitation was read from Ohio Federation of Women's clubs to attend the state convention to be held in Columbus, May 6, 7, and 8, at the Deshler-Wallick hotel. Mrs. Ray W. Davis, chairman, of southeast district of O.F.W.C. will preside at the district luncheon slated for 12:30 p. m. Thursday May 8. All members were urged to attend the banquet at 6:30 p. m. on the same day to hear Charles P. Taft, Cincinnati, whose subject will be "The Place of the Church in the World Today". Mrs. Melvin Kiger and Mrs. James P. Moffitt were named as delegates. Mrs. George Haswell and Mrs. Charles H. May were selected as alternates to attend the federation convention.

ANOTHER invitation was extended to the club to attend the dedication of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs, Forest and Shrine, in Loudonville, Sunday, April 27 at 1:30 p. m. Mrs. Davis substituted for Mrs. Clark Will in the presentation of a paper prepared by Mrs. Percy W. May entitled "Nature in Music", first given before the Monday club in 1933. "Nature in music is that element or quality which appeals to the natural emotion as distinguished from intellectual precepts. With this point in mind, music may be divided into two broad classifications; first the class and second the romantic."

"FIRST making its appeal primarily to the intellect or reason. Second appealing directly to the emotions, the heart and the soul. In the field of music, Beethoven represents revolutionary sentimentality. He bridges the gap between the formalism of Bach and Handel and the individualism of the earlier romanticists. Schubert, Schumann and Wagner, Mendelssohn and Wagner typify romantic music at full flower."

"The supreme achievement of musical landscape painting can be found in the works of the Frenchmen, Claude Debussy and Vincent d'Indy and the Americans Charles Loeffler and Edward McDowell."

In conclusion she said "Let us gladly accept all that music can give us; all its rich appeals to the heart, the senses and the imagination, its power of grotesque and amusing suggestions, as well as its power to utter the sublime."

MISS ALICE Ada May, chairman, introduced the musical program, which consisted of: piano duet by Mrs. Martin Cromley and Mrs. Joseph W. Adkins, "On the Trail" Ferde Grofe — 3rd movement from his "Grand Canyon suite."

"Dance of the Reed Flutes" from the "Nutcracker Suite" by Tchaikovsky was offered by the chorus, accompanied by Miss Abbe Mills Clark. Miss Rosemary Schreiner for her vocal solo selected, "The Winds in the South" by John Prindle Scott. "The Snow", music by Edward Elgar and words by C. Alice Elgar, was presented by the Monday club chorus with Miss Clark and Mrs. Ione Reichelderfer accompanists.

Luther League Makes Plans For April 27 Meeting

Luther League members of Trinity Lutheran church at their regular monthly meeting Monday evening made final plans to attend the Scioto-Hocking valley confederation meeting to be held at St. Paul's Lutheran church near Ashville on April 27.

Luther Leagues from Lancaster, Canal Winchester, Groveport, Lithopolis, Marcy, St. Paul, Lockbourne, Ashville, and Circleville will participate in the meeting. A combined choir consisting of members from each league and under the directorship of Mrs. George Troutman will provide music for the occasion. The Rev. E. H. E. Winterhoff, pastor of St. Paul's church, will be host for the gathering.

Following a brief discussion on the St. Paul trip, Jimmy Bartholomew presented the topic "How should a Christian Spend Sunday." Luther League's adult advisors gave brief reports on the growth of the newly organized group.

Refreshments were served by Patty Arbogast, Beverly Albright, Dick Buskirk, Leona Radcliff, and Edward Wolf.

Luther League Makes Plans For April 27 Meeting

Luther League members of Trinity Lutheran church at their regular monthly meeting Monday evening made final plans to attend the Scioto-Hocking valley confederation meeting to be held at St. Paul's Lutheran church near Ashville on April 27.

Luther Leagues from Lancaster, Canal Winchester, Groveport, Lithopolis, Marcy, St. Paul, Lockbourne, Ashville, and Circleville will participate in the meeting. A combined choir consisting of members from each league and under the directorship of Mrs. George Troutman will provide music for the occasion. The Rev. E. H. E. Winterhoff, pastor of St. Paul's church, will be host for the gathering.

Following a brief discussion on the St. Paul trip, Jimmy Bartholomew presented the topic "How should a Christian Spend Sunday." Luther League's adult advisors gave brief reports on the growth of the newly organized group.

Refreshments were served by Patty Arbogast, Beverly Albright, Dick Buskirk, Leona Radcliff, and Edward Wolf.

Solaqua Club Plans Picnic And Tour

Members of Solaqua garden club of Ashville and vicinity gathered Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Henry Snyder for their regular meeting, with Mrs. James Hott assisting hostess.

During the session plans were made for an all day picnic and garden tour in June. Mrs. Homer Peters, Mrs. E. A. Payne and Mrs. Willard Barch were appointed to complete arrangements for the outing. Mrs. Evert Peters sang, "Mighty Like a Rose". Mrs. Chauncey Hedges read an article, "Annals you should know" which had been prepared by Mrs. Edith Koch.

Roundtable discussions were led by Mrs. Snyder and Mrs. E. A. Payne, with various members taking part. Club library was put in to operation by Mrs. James Hott, president. Mrs. Payne gave a review of her recent trip to California. Group held a plant exchange.

May meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Lee Downs with Mrs. Richard Hudson and Mrs. George Tillar assistant hostesses.

Scioto Chapel Aid Meeting Is Held

Thirty-seven members and guests were present for Scioto Chapel Ladies aid society held in the parish house with Mrs. Richard Hudson, president, in charge of the session. Meeting opened with the group singing, "In the Garden". Scripture reading and a prayer were presented by the Rev. O. W. Smith. "O Worship the King" in unison by the group brought the session to a close.

During the social hours Sharon Younkun sang "The Easter Parade" and "April Showers". Contest were won by Mrs. Donald Burke, Mrs. Carl Derr, Mrs. Cecil Ward and Mrs. Williams. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Harold Wilson, Mrs. Lou West, Mrs. Charles Mumaw, Jr., Mrs. Carl Younkun and Mrs. Howard Younkun.

CIRCLE TO MEET

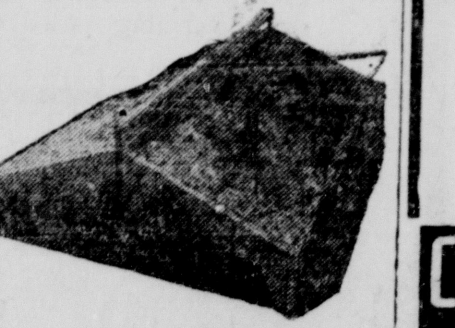

Miss Della Huffman, East Mound street, will entertain members of circle 3, Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church, Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. Mack Moore, Mrs. Robbins F. Lilly and Mrs. Charles Gray.

GROUPS MEETS WEDNESDAY

NEWS Behind the NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

such a generality is to encourage a movement which could wreck the country, with more inflation. Such an increase certainly sounds unjust, unwarranted and possibly illegal. He could have required the reporter who brought the matter up to cite the specific case. Incidentally also in this way he could probably have forced that very price down by intelligent moral suasion—publicity.

The overall truth of the matter was not even mentioned at the supposedly complete economic seminar, namely that production is the cause of it all. When you get production, free enterprise will operate. Certainly the cost of living will not come down as long as goods are short and the sellers control the market.

Mr. Truman might have called on his agriculture department to encourage more production. He might have called on his bureau of labor statistics to trace down the real reason why milk, eggs, cream and bread are higher. He could have ordered his justice department to enforce bitterly any unjust combinations under the antitrust laws which are holding prices up. He might have done a hundred similar things which would really help the consumer and really get prices down.

TUGS TRYING TO PUSH ELIZABETH OFF SANDBAR

SOUTHAMPTON, April 15 — Tugs nosed at the trapped luxury liner Queen Elizabeth with the rising tide today and gently nudged her from the ridge of a sandbar that held the giant vessel.

Southampton port authorities said each high tide brings new danger to the 85,000 ton luxury liner which became trapped last night on the Brambles shoal off the British port of Southampton.

The bow of the majestic vessel appeared to be wedged into the treacherous bar and officials feared any marked forward movement with a rising tide may cause her to straddle the ridge.

This, they explained, would bring the liner in danger of "overheating or even breaking her back."

A scheduled disembarkation of the 2,446 passengers aboard was postponed, causing more impatience than concern.

Particularly distressed were American sports fans who feared they would arrive in London too late for tonight's heavyweight battle between Britain's Bruce Woodcock and Joe Baksi, Kulpmont, Pa.

Among the passengers is under-secretary of state William L. Clayton, who is due in Geneva tomorrow to head the U. S. Delegation to the United Nations trade conference.

Veteran boatmen observed that the Queen Elizabeth was blocking the tideway and doubted whether the flagship America will be able to get by tomorrow when it arrives.

Solaqua Club Plans Picnic And Tour

Members of Solaqua garden club of Ashville and vicinity gathered Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Henry Snyder for their regular meeting, with Mrs. James Hott assisting hostess.

During the session plans were made for an all day picnic and garden tour in June. Mrs. Homer Peters, Mrs. E. A. Payne and Mrs. Willard Barch were appointed to complete arrangements for the outing. Mrs. Everett Peters sang, "Mighty Like a Rose". Mrs. Chauncey Hedges read an article, "Annals you should know" which had been prepared by Mrs. Edith Koch.

Roundtable discussions were led by Mrs. Snyder and Mrs. E. A. Payne, with various members taking part. Club library was put in to operation by Mrs. James Hott, president. Mrs. Payne gave a review of her recent trip to California. Group held a plant exchange.

May meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Lee Downs with Mrs. Richard Hudson and Mrs. George Tillar assistant hostesses.

Scioto Chapel Aid Meeting Is Held

Thirty-seven members and guests were present for Scioto Chapel Ladies aid society held in the parish house with Mrs. Richard Hudson, president, in charge of the session. Meeting opened with the group singing, "In the Garden". Scripture reading and a prayer were presented by the Rev. O. W. Smith. "O Worship the King" in unison by the group brought the session to a close.

During the social hours Sharon Younkin sang "The Easter Parade" and "April Showers". Contest were won by Mrs. Donald Burke, Mrs. Carl Derr, Mrs. Cecil Ward and Mrs. Williams. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Harold Wilson, Mrs. Lou West, Mrs. Charles Mumaw, Jr., Mrs. Carl Younkin and Mrs. Howard Younkin.

CIRCLE TO MEET

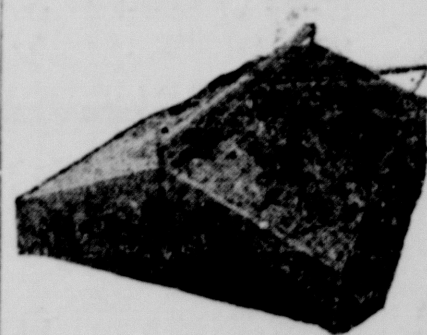

Miss Della Huffman, East Mound street, will entertain members of circle 3, Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church, Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. Assistant hostesses will be, Mrs. Mack Moore, Mrs. Robbins F. Lilly and Mrs. Charles Gray.

GROUPS MEETS WEDNESDAY Mrs. Clyde Wells will entertain members of group C, Woman's Association of the Presbyterian church, Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. in her home on North Court street.

such a generality is to encourage a movement which could wreck the country, with more inflation. Such an increase certainly sounds unjust, unwarranted and possibly illegal. He could have required the reporter who brought the matter up to cite the specific case. Incidentally also in this way he could probably have forced that very price down by intelligent moral suasion—publicity.

The overall truth of the matter was not even mentioned at the supposedly complete economic seminar, namely that production is the cause of it all. When you get production, free enterprise will operate. Certainly the cost of living will not come down as long as goods are short and the sellers control the market.

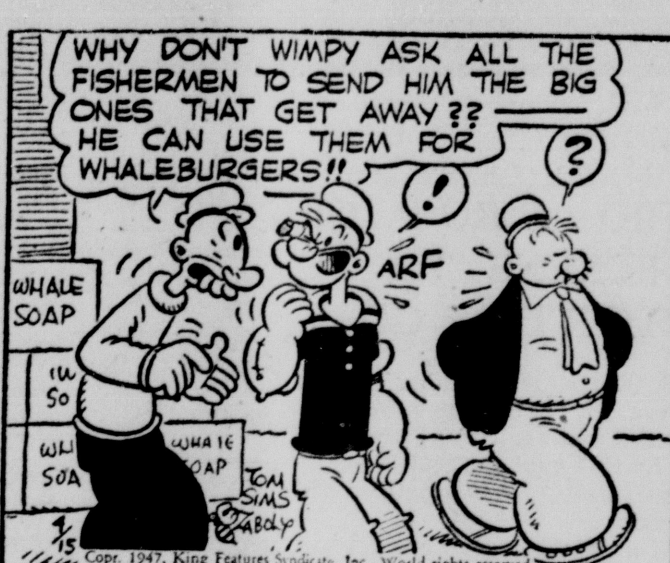

Mr. Truman might have called on his agriculture department to encourage more production. He might have called on his bureau of labor statistics to trace down the real reason why milk, eggs, cream and bread are higher. He could have ordered

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

SOME ARE READABLE
IF ONE of your opponents, particularly a non-vulnerable one, bids a whole series of different declarations, which you and your partner double for business—that is the time to be wary, especially if the opponent is known to you as a canny performer addicted to use of psychic bids. You can usually decide then that he has probably not yet bid. When he finally calls it, do not fall into his trap and double unless you have a rather goodly holding in that suit. Preferably go on with your own side's bidding or pass to see what your partner desires to do.

Both South and North fumbled that series of psychic bids by M. G. Murray, local star, in a duplicate at St. Petersburg, with Ed Larkin, another Florida stalwart opposite him in the West and clearly reading what was up. But neither South, a visiting New Yorker, nor his partner did.

Even before Mr. Murray made his diamond call, a fine player sitting either North or South could have foretold that he would bid it and would have been ready to resume the bidding by his own side. South either could have bid 3-No Trumps then with his single stopper in the suit got led, or could have passed; in the latter case, North should have bid either hearts or spades, following South's doubles. In any of these cases, game would have resulted.

The heart J lead enabled Mr. Murray to use the A and Q for discarding his spade. So he scored six tricks in diamonds, two in hearts and a club ruff for a tremendous top, the only plus by any East-West pair in the duplicate which he and Mr. Larkin won.

NEW YORK, April 15—Radio has ruffled the decorum of Emily Post.

With great concern over the manners and morals of modern society, she is busy in her Manhattan office composing an article on the courtesies attendant upon radio.

To guests in the home, she says, mind your out-in-company manners. "People should have as much respect for a radio program as for a play, concert or the opera. When you come in the room, you should watch how your host turns off the radio. If he turns it off with alacrity, then you can stay."

If he dawdles with the dial, looks as if he is saying farewell to a fond friend, you're interrupting him and it's only courteous to snatch your hat from the butler and bow silently out.

On the other hand, should the guest not get the hint, Mrs. Post considers it quite correct to tell him you want to listen and he should conduct himself accordingly or leave. Equally as effective and equally proper, is a sign posted somewhere about the room where the guest can see it upon entering, stating the time the program will end and gently chiding "please enter silently."

Pondering further the behavior problems created by radio, Lady Etiquette thinks a nosily playing portable radio is the "best" nuisance. People who carry portables in public places should tune them low, carry them "on the shoulder, right up next to your ear."

When two members of the family want to listen to different programs heard at the same time, squabbling is not the mannerly thing to do. "The only solution," according to Post propriety, "is to have two radios. You can get a portable quite cheap, and they're little lambs to carry about."

By next Fall, Mrs. Post will probably add a code of courtesy for broadcasters to her thoughts on radio manners. She is negotiating now for a program of her on the air in Autumn.

She is not, however, a constant listener, explaining: "the reputation I have for listening is twisted because I never have time for it." She usually tunes in one of her radio during breakfast or when she lunches alone.

But this septuagenarian authority on etiquette has a few opinions, vigorously but politely expressed, on radio broadcasting. There is too much of one type of program, the day-time serials for example, and those "perfectly dreadful" bromide audience participation shows.

Studio audiences follow their Post manners well, all except the "dreadful" screeching, whistling, stomping bobby sox crowd. But Emily Post thinks broadcasters might build up on their company manners. "Radio is a guest in the house and should always be on its best behavior."

Ralph Edwards took a few days off last week to drive to Las Vegas to see Clara Bow and her husband, Rex Bell. During the entire "Mrs. Hush" stunt on "Truth or Consequences," Edwards' sole contact with Miss Bow was through his producer Al Paschall. While Ralph spoke with his "Mrs. Hush" on the phone, he had never met her.

Tin Pan Alley will pay tribute to Emil Coleman on the occasion of his 30th anniversary as a bandleader Tuesday night. Celebrities from all phases of show business will convene at the swank Waldorf-Astoria, where Coleman's orchestra is a mainstay, to salute the well-known society bandleader on this occasion.

Philadelphia and Boston established street railway lines in 1857.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

SOME ARE READABLE

IF ONE of your opponents, particularly a non-vulnerable one, bids a whole series of different declarations, which you and your partner double for business—that is the time to be wary, especially if the opponent is known to you as a canny performer addicted to use of psychic bids. You can usually decide then that he has probably nothing except one very long suit—most likely the one he has not yet bid. When he finally calls it, do not fall into his trap and double unless you have a rather good holding in that suit. Preferably go on with your own side's bidding or pass to see what your partner desires to do.

Both South and North fumbled that series of psychic bids by M. G. Murray, local star, in a duplicate at St. Petersburg, with Ed Larkin, another Florida stalwart opposite him in the West and clearly reading what was up. But neither South, a visiting New Yorker, nor his partner did.

Even before Mr. Murray made his diamond call, a fine player sitting either North or South could have foretold that he would bid it and would have been ready to resume the bidding by his own side. South either could have bid 3-No Trumps then with his single stopper if the suit got led, or could have passed; in the latter case, North should have bid either hearts or spades, following South's doubles. In any of these cases, game would have resulted.

The heart J lead enabled Mr. Murray to use the A and Q for discarding his spade. So he scored six tricks in diamonds, two in hearts and a club ruff for a tremendous top, the only plus by any East-West pair in the duplicate which he and Mr. Larkin won.

Married women who join Bucks, England, police force have been promised up to 18 months' leave to have babies.

programs heard at the same time, squabbling is not the mannerly thing to do. "The only solution," according to Post property, "is to have two radios. You can get a portable quite cheap, and they're little lumps to carry about."

By next Fall, Mrs. Post will probably add a code of courtesy for broadcasters to her thoughts on radio manners. She is negotiating now for a program of her on the air in Autumn.

She is not, however, a constant listener, explaining: "The reputation I have for listening is twisted because I never have time for it." She usually tunes in one of her radio during breakfast or when she lunches alone.

But this septuagenarian authority on etiquette has a few opinions, vigorously but politely expressed, on radio broadcasting. There is too much of one type of program, the day-time serials for example, and those "perfectly dreadful" bromide audience participation shows.

Studio audiences follow their Post manners well, all except the "dreadful" screaming, whistling, stomping bobby sox crowd. But Emily Post thinks broadcasters might brush up on their company manners. "Radio is a guest in the house and should always be on its best behavior."

Ralph Edwards took a few days off last week to drive to Las Vegas to see Clara Bow and her husband, Rex Bell. During the entire "Mrs. Hush" stunt on "Truth or Consequences," Edwards' sole contact with Miss Bow was through his producer Al Paschall. While Ralph spoke with his "Mrs. Hush" on the phone, he had never met her.

HOLSTEIN GROUP IN TRIBUTE TO BILLY THOMPSON

Washington Township Youth Gets Junior Membership In Organization

Announcement that Billy Thompson, 11, a member of the Washington Hill Climbers 4-H club, has been awarded a certificate of merit and has been granted a junior membership in the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, was received Tuesday in Circleville from that organization's national headquarters at Brattleboro, Vt.

The merit certificate and junior membership were presented, the notification said, because of the excellent calf work done during 1946 by Billy, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thompson, Route 3, Circleville, in Washington township.

The announcement further says that the lad is the 8,128th member of the national group to achieve this national recognition and he is the only resident of Pickaway county thus honored. Loring Leist is the advisor to the Washington Hill Climbers 4-H club. The award gives Billy all privileges of the association, except voting, until he attains the age of 21 years.

County Agricultural Agent Larry A. Best said Billy Thompson won an "A" award for his dairy calf exhibit at the Pickaway County Fair last September in Circleville.

OHIO CROP OF CHICKENS TO BE SHORT OF GOAL

If the present falling off of orders for baby chicks continues Ohio will fall short of reaching its 1947 goal of 30,000,000 chickens raised, AAA officials said Tuesday.

At the time goals were set last Winter it appeared that poultry raisers might produce in excess of the demand for chickens this year.

The present outlook is quite different due to the failure of poultry raisers to place orders for baby chicks.

It now appears likely that Ohio will fall short of her 30 million goal for chickens raised this year unless farmers change their minds and start ordering baby chicks soon.

Indicated market needs have not changed. Growers still need to produce 30 million chickens in Ohio this year.

Red Blood Cells Must Be Kept Up If You Want To Feel Alive

Thousands Now Regaining Old Time Pep, Vigor and Drive By Releasing Vibrant Energy To Every Muscle, Fibre, Cell

Overwork, undue worry, and lack of certain foods often reduces the red-blood strength—and starved, weak, puny blood just hasn't the power to keep up your energy and drive.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloating and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Cooperating with

PRESIDENT TRUMAN

in his plea to the Nation

ROTHMAN'S WILL REDUCE PRICES

lending our little impetus towards the attainment of that purpose.

Though Spring is but 3 weeks old we will nevertheless declare a 10 to 25 per cent reduction on most all ladies' ready-to-wear.
